THE HESSIG INQUEST WAS RESUMED TODAY

Servants and Others Testified in the Mysterious Case.

Operator Says Telephone at Hessig's Didn't Ring--- Verdict---"Death From Unknown Causes."

THE VERDICT.

"We, the jury, after having been duly sworn to investigate the death of Mrs. Ida Ethel Hessig, after having viewed the remains and hearing all the evidence introduced, do find that she came to her death from UNKNOWN CAUSES."

Coroner James R. Crow this morning resumed the inquest into the death of Mrs. Ida Ethel Hessig, who was found dead Wednesday, June 7th at her home at Eighth and Jackson streets. The jury was empaneled a week ago and the inquest adjourned until the analysis of the stomach was complete.

Wednesday the inquest was again deferred in order to get several witnesses the police department wanted.

This morning when Coroner Crow called the jury in the rear of the Nance and Pool undertaking parlors, there were few present except the jurymen, newspaper men and lawyers.

County Attorney Eugene Graves and Detective T. J. Moore represented the commonwealth, and Attorneys Hal Corbett and J. Wheeler Campbell presumably Dr. Hessig, who was himself present but did not remain in the room all of the time.

Ethel Towle, colored, was the first witness called. She testified in substance that she had "lived with the Hessigs off and on for five years," and was the first to see Mrs. Hessig after Dr. Hessig found her dead. She said Dr. Hessig came and aroused her about 6:30 o'clock, and said he had found his wife dead, and she went with him. He stopped in the stable or coal house, she couldn't tell which because she was hurrying in front, and didn't pay any attention, and got the ladder. While he was getting into the room she stood on the table Dr. Hessig claimed he stood on when, after being aroused by the telephone, he looked through the transom and saw his wife dead. She said she could not see anything through the transom except the foot of the bed. She did not know what Dr. Hessig was doing inside, but in a few minutes he opened the door and told her to come in. Her testimony regarding the position of the body and the bed clothing was not material, as Dr. Hessig had picked up the corpse and placed it on the bed. He told her to get the camphor and tried to resuscitate Mrs. Hessig. The witness said that one of the shades in Mrs. Hessig's room was never down at night, and that Mrs. Hessig never put out her light, but the morning Dr. Hessig called her the windows were down, shades drawn and light out. She put up the shade herself. She said there was no foam or blood on the mouth of the corpse, but was a small pimple in one corner of the mouth.

In regard to the ladder Dr. Hessig used, she said she had never known it to be kept anywhere in the house during the five years she had been working there except in the toilet and bath room. It was a white ladder and was used to get from the bath room into the attic. She said that she was called to the stable three or four times daily to get eggs, coal and to feed the horse, and never in her life saw the ladder there. The afternoon of the funeral, she said Dr. Hessig, after reading the paper, suddenly jumped up and said he must put that ladder back where he got it, and started to take it to the bath room. She asked him if he got it in the stable why he didn't put it back there, and he finally did so.

In regard to their domestic relations, she said: "They were fussing," the last time she saw them together the Sunday before Mrs. Hessig's death. In regard to the keys to the door, Dr. Hessig, Mrs. Hessig and the cook all had keys, and one key would unlock almost every lock in the house. She said when found Mrs. Hessig's lips and tongue were purple. The tongue could be seen between her teeth. In regard to the curtains, she did not know how many were pulled down, nor how often. Dr. Hessig always provided well for his wife, she said. Mrs. Hessig was not often ill and seemed to take little medicine. Sometimes she would complain in the morning of having had a "jimmy." Witness didn't know what it was until one day Dr. Hessig called her to the room and said Mrs. Hessig was having a hard one. Mrs. Hessig seemed to be unconscious, although she afterwards claimed to have heard all they said, and her hands twitched, but there was no foam or froth about her mouth. Dr. and Mrs. Hessig quarreled very much. She heard the conversation with Dr. Hessig about the ladder when he went to put it back after Mrs. Hessig's funeral. Sometimes Mrs. Hessig burned a light at night, and sometimes she didn't. Mrs. Hessig once told her she always had a "jimmy" when she thought about her people.

Ada Gray, colored, was the Hessig's washerwoman, and testified to about the same effect as the other two Dr. Hessig said just before announcing that he would put the ladder back where he got it, "You see, Ada, they are trying to do me." She said it was something he had dread about the case in the paper.

Dr. H. T. Rivers said he was first called and told to come to Dr. Hessig's, as he believed Mrs. Hessig was dying. In a few moments he received another message that he believed she was dead, but to come anyhow. The messages were supposed to be from Dr. Hessig.

Dr. Rivers arrived between 7:30 and 8 o'clock. Dr. J. D. Robertson accompanied him.

To the best of his knowledge and belief, Mrs. Hessig had been dead several hours. He did not make a thorough examination of Mrs. Hessig after death. He did about ten days before, Dr. Hessig came to him, he said, and told him that his wife had consumption and a very severe case of heart disease, and wanted him to see her and make a thorough examination. He did so and found that there was apparently nothing the matter with her, except she might have a slight attack of malaria. The witness would not venture an opinion whether Mrs. Hessig died of epilepsy, as he never saw anyone die from it. He found three discolored spots on her face, one of which seemed to be a depression, or something produced by long pressure. There were hundreds of small spots on her face and in her hair. They looked like minute blood blisters, but could have resulted from the pressure of the blood with the body lying head downwards, either before or after death. Dr. Rivers was questioned as to the effects of various poisons, but had little information to vouchsafe. He had no opinion whatever to offer as to the cause of Mrs. Hessig's death, because he did not make a thorough examination of the body. He said, however, that he never found any symptoms about Mrs. Hessig at anytime, of epilepsy. He said the depression in the face or temple might have resulted from the head's remaining on some object for a time. One of the jurors asked him why Mrs. Hessig did not let her husband prescribe for her, and the witness said he could only repeat her own words to him—"The d—d wooden-shod Dutchman hasn't got sense enough."

County Physician J. W. Pendley presented the report of Prof. Sullivan on the stomach analysis, and also described the kinds of epilepsy, saying that one form usually attacks only at night, and sometimes the victim did not know he had it, and might not know it for years. He said there was evidence of rigidity in the body of Mrs. Hessig when he saw it, but the small spots had about disappeared. The official report of the analysis was ordered turned over to the jury.

Henrietta Brown, colored, said she had been at the Hessig home for about five years up to March. She had never seen the ladder in the stable during the time she was there, but did not know what might have happened since March. She said that she had heard Mrs. Hessig talk about having a "jimmy," but never knew what it was until one day Dr. Hessig called her to the room and said Mrs. Hessig was having a hard one. Mrs. Hessig seemed to be unconscious, although she afterwards claimed to have heard all they said, and her hands twitched, but there was no foam or froth about her mouth.

Dr. and Mrs. Hessig quarreled very much.

She heard the conversation with Dr. Hessig about the ladder when he went to put it back after Mrs. Hessig's funeral. Sometimes Mrs. Hessig burned a light at night, and sometimes she didn't. Mrs. Hessig once told her she always had a "jimmy" when she thought about her people.

The above is the expedition that Mr. Sam Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson, Paducah, joined sometime ago. They expect to be gone eight months or a year, perhaps longer.

Miss Veal, night chief operator at the People's Independent Telephone exchange, was introduced in regard to the statement Dr. Hessig made that he was first aroused by the ringing of the telephone in his wife's room. She said that from 9 p.m. one operator and herself were the only ones in charge of the board at Independent company's office. She said she seldom made a mistake, but that she remembered particularly about the Hessig telephone because the manager had given them explicit orders about it. They were not allowed to connect the telephone, which was in Mrs. Hessig's room, and was 384, with anyone unless the person at 384 was a woman and said it was Mrs. Hessig. Anyone who called for 384 could not get it. The orders they had all received about the Hessig telephone, however, she said, caused them to pay particular attention to it, and she swore positively that no one was at the board except herself between 6 and 6:45 o'clock a.m. on the morning of Mrs. Hessig's death, and that Mrs. Hessig's telephone did not ring during that time.

When questioned she admitted that sometimes wires get crossed and caused phones to ring, and sometimes the exchange operators give a person the wrong number, but declared that nothing of the kind happened on this court, if necessary.

Owners of Cows are to Test New Ordinance in the Courts Here

Cow owners have decided to test the constitutionality of the cow ordinance in the courts and are making up money to have an exparte suit instituted.

This morning the first cow ordinance violator was arraigned in police court for permitting his cow to run at large within the city limits. He was Mr. S. R. Ragsdale and his case was continued until Monday in order to give cow owners more time to get up their money and have the suit instituted.

Attorneys Campbell & Campbell and G. C. Diuguid have been employed by cow owners, principally railroad people, to bring the suit and are making up the necessary amount to carry the case to the appellate court, if necessary.

From the time the ordinance was passed cow owners have been preparing to take it into the courts. Lawyers differ as to whether or not the city had the right to pass such a law, but Illinois has a state stock law, and every city of any size in the country has a local stock law.

SHERIFF POTTER ON ELECTION BOARD

He Will Serve Instead of Circuit Clerk Emery Hobson.

Court of Appeals Decides the Second Class City Law Unconstitutional.

DEMOCRATIC MACHINE PRODUCT

Frankfort, Ky., June 16.—Court of appeals, by Chief Justice Hobson, has affirmed the Kenton circuit court in the case of Frank A. Droege vs. M. D. McInerney, sheriff. The court holds invalid the act of March 22, 1904, making the circuit court clerk a member of the county board of election commissioners, instead of the sheriff, in "counties where there is no sheriff and counties containing cities of the second class." The act was aimed at McInerney, and is held to be special or class legislation.

The above affects only McCracken, Kenton and Campbell and Fayette counties. It means that the sheriffs in these counties shall serve on the election board as in other Kentucky counties. The Democratic machine wanted to get the sheriff off the election board in Covington, as he was a thorn in their side, and had the legislature pass a special law, making the circuit clerk a member of the election board instead of the sheriff, in the four counties having second class cities.

This law affected Paducah, as it made Circuit Clerk Emery Hobson a member of the election board instead of Sheriff Lee Potter, who had been serving.

Circuit Clerk Hobson has never served on the board, however, as he lives in Cincinnati and was not here the other two commissioners Messrs. Ed Farley and J. C. Flournoy, transacting the business harmoniously without any necessity for his attendance and vote.

INSOLVENT DEBTORS

Will Take the Oath Tomorrow and Get Out of Jail.

Deputy U. S. Marshal George Saunders arrived from Mayfield at noon to look after some business here, but will have to return tonight on account of the illness of his wife who is suffering from bronchitis.

Marshal Saunders will return tomorrow, however, to take several federal prisoners from the jail to Commissioner W. A. Gardner's office where they will take the insolvent debtor's oath and be released from serving out a $100 fine.

There are six prisoners in jail, two white and four colored who have just completed serving out their jail sentences but owe fines for illicit whiskey selling. They are Jack Whitesides, city, and Will Burtram, Benton, white. The colored are Lee Birmingham, Murray; Poney Murrell, Mayfield; Luther Chambers, Mayfield, and Press Lindsey, Mayfield. They were fined $100 and thirty days in jail during the April term of federal court and several have notified District Attorney Hill and expect to take the oath tomorrow.

Jack Whitesides, who failed to procure a lawyer and get the notification drawn in regular form, will not be permitted to take the oath because of the fact. Whitesides has several letters from Attorney Hill, and was very much wrought up over it this afternoon saying that he intended telegraphing the president of the United States if Attorney Hill didn't give him a better show.

NO APPLICANTS

For Office of Constable in the Fifth District.

It seems that the office of constable in the Fifth district will go begging, no one seeming to want it.

Constable B. F. Sears resigned several weeks ago and the only applicant for the position was Mr. M. T. Hurt, who has now withdrawn his application. County Judge Lightfoot has no applications for this office and stated this afternoon that he would wait until some came in.

County School Examinations.

County School Supt. A. M. Ragsdale is today holding examinations for county school teachers' certificates and there are ten in the class. They are Messrs. G. C. McKinney, Woodville; Milton Anderson, Gramhamville; Virgil Derrington, Florence Station; E. F. Surratt, Symsonia; W. T. Harrison, Sharpe and Seth Boaz, Boaz Station; Misses Lummie Luckett, Annie Knott, Woodville and Sallie Johnson, of Eperson.

Killed Her Five Children and Herself

Tucumcari, N. M., June 16.—Mrs. George Campbell, wife of a ranchman living four miles west of here went suddenly insane, and, with a rifle, chased her husband from home. Then, before he could return with help, she killed her five children and ended her own life by shooting.

Died in Kansas City.

Mr. G. B. Brantley, who had been ill from cancer in a Kansas City for several months past, died today. He lived at 1110 Madison street and was a popular railroad man. The remains will reach the city Saturday afternoon, the funeral arrangements to be announced later.

Nothing Can Save Woman.

Reading, Penn., June 16.—Samuel Greason, the negro once under sentence of death with Kate Edwards for murdering the woman's husband, was acquitted today. It is believed nothing can save Mrs. Edwards from the gallows, now.

Three Killed by Train.

Edgerton, Ohio, June 16.—A. T. Brown and wife were killed, and Mrs. Rathburn probably fatally injured by a Lakeshore fast mail train last night, in attempting to get out of the way of a freight they stepped in front of a fast mail.

Wife Murderer Hanged.

Peoria, Ill., June 16.—Otis Botts was hanged here today for wife murderer. He killed his wife last January by tying a piece of ribbon tightly about her neck and thrusting a handkerchief in her mouth.

Condemned Men in Wreck.

Decatur, Ala., June 16.—A train carrying three negroes being brought here from Birmingham to be hanged today, was wrecked. The train will not arrive until late, and the execution may be postponed.

BATTLE ON LAND IS LIKELY AT ANY TIME

May be August Before Peace Plenipotentiaries Get Together.

Russia Said to be Willing to Make Peace to Prevent European War.

London, June 16.—While the minkado's diplomats are busy with the preliminaries of a conclave to end the war, Field Marshal Oyama has begun another great battle against the czar's forces, and one which promises to be so decisive that peace must follow.

Already the Japanese commander in chief has thrown a net partially around the Russians.

Oyama is using his old tactics in the present battle. In every great battle he has fought in Manchuria he has made a feint on the Russian right and then sent a strong force around the left to cut off the enemy's retreat. Thus far his enemy has always escaped him with great loss. Now the Japanese are pushing ahead in a vast semicircle, and Oyama's objective this time is to close the gap to the north, through which heretofore his foe has always found an open way.

The plans which Oyama is now carrying out on such a vast scale have been in the making since the battle of Mukden. He delayed the execution of it until Togo's victory in the sea of Japan made it certain that his re-enforcements and his base of supplies would not be interrupted. As soon as his possible fears on that account were allayed, he sent forward his advance lines and prepared for the decisive struggle, in which he now has 150,000 men engaged.

Already Oyama has crumpled up the Russian left. Under date of Monday, General Linevitch wired to St. Petersburg, admitting that his left gave way after desperate fighting, and that the move has every appearance of a general engagement.

Some Inside Facts.

Paris, June 16.—The question of peace negotiations is complicated with certain features of what is easiest described as the European situation, which almost overshadows it in general importance. Peace may come, but it will be negotiated with considerable unwillingness on the part of both belligerents who are influenced in accepting President Roosevelt's invitations at the present moment by considerations quite extraneous from the far eastern situation.

Will Be Several Weeks.

EXCURSION TO CAIRO.

With the Kolbites pounding Long Bill Frakes all over the outfield for home runs, three baggers, two bag-gers, and singles, and with the Indians' work a little sluggish as far as sticking is concerned, the warriors took a fresh lease on life yesterday and by a series of pinch hitting, heady ball playing and desperate chance taking, the Indians won the third and last game of the series with the Hoosiers yesterday afternoon at Wallace park grounds by a score of 6 to 3.

The playing of the two teams was oddly contrasted. The Hoosiers were knocking the ball all over the outfield while the Indians played a different style of ball. They bunted and took chances where the Kolbites tried to knock the cover off the sphere. There was a large crowd out to see the game and although Frakes showed up weak, the fans never gave up but cheered the game through.

The Hoosiers started off in the second inning and tallied once. Wilkinson lead off with a double to right field. The summary follows:

center and Donovan and Barbour followed with outs. Duggan singled and Bierkortee singled, scoring Wilkinson.
Witt's fly out to Taylor ended
the misery for this inning.

In the following inning the Hoosiers continued to stick and talked again. Cooper made first on Perry's fumble of his grounder, and Kolb bunted to Frakes who threw wild to second to force out Cooper. Lemon at this juncture singled and Cooper scored. Wilkinson hit to Frakes who forced Kolb out at third. Donovan was struck in the shoulder and given first sack, but died on the lines, Barbour and Duggan popping out to Poets.

In the fourth inning the Kolbites tallied still another run. Bierkortee and Witt were retired and Cooper came to the bat. He swung viciously at two and met the third with a crash, sending the ball to the score board. He made the circuit, scoring a home run.

The Indians awoke from their numbers in the fifth inning when the score was tied. Poets drew a stroll and Lloyd singled to left field. Land reached first on error of Witt who belded his bunt to third with, scoring Poets and Lloyd. Barbour fielded the throw and returned it to Bierkortee but threw wild, Land making home from second before the ball could be thrown home. This tied the score and Frakes, McClain and Perry were then retired in order.

The Indians in the 7th inning
made three more and cinched the game. Poets singled, Lloyd singled,
Land singled and Frakes popped out
to Barbour. McClain, Perry and Gilligan all singled on bunted balls
which the Hoosiers could not field
fast enough and scored three runs.
McClain was forced out at second
and Taylor went out to Donovan and
the side was retired.

In the eighth inning the Hoosiers
scored one more run on a clean three bagger and infield hit. Donovan, with one out, drove the ball to center and gained third sack. He was followed by Barbour, Poets fielding to first and letting in the score. The next man
sawed and the misery ended.

In the last of the ninth the Hoosiers
failed to do anything even though they did have a double and
single, and the Indians left with two
out of three scalps for this series,
making six games out of the nine
played with the Kolbites.

A Train Saved Cairo.

Cairo, Ill., June 16.—Yesterday's game was called at the end of the seventh inning to allow Princeton to catch a train. The game was one of the most interesting ever played here because it was full of heavy hitting and star fielding.

The summary:

Princeton 6 10 3
Cairo 8 8 2

Batteries—Beeker, Carnes and Wagner, Eckstone, Wagner and Harney.

There are now only thirty-four points between Paducah and Vincennes and Paducah has played two games more than Alice. We'll close the gap pretty quick now.

Cairo and Paducah now for six days: It's a shame to take the money!

Piatt pitches for the Indians at Cairo Sunday and there will be excursions by boat and train. They know what to expect from Wiley, but then Cairo is used now to getting beat by this time.

The Indians never kick unless they get a real raw deal, but the Hoosiers kick on every provocation, whether real or imaginary.

Kelfer threatens to quit the league because the Hoosiers kicked when he failed to see an alleged interference on the part of Land. The Little Umpis is there with the goods. He is fair and square and the Hoosiers show very unsportsmanlike dispositions
when they protest unse such conditions.

In the fifth inning when the Indians tallied their first runs, Land is alleged to have interfered with the fielding of the ball. He is alleged to have thrown up his arm and caught the flying ball, causing it to go out of the reach of fielders. The umpire did not see the alleged interference.

In the eighth inning when the game was stopped on account of rain. A fifteen minute layoff was all the elements caused and when the teams went back to finish the game, played fast ball, ending the game in less than 15 minutes.

Donovan robbed McClain of at least a three bagger yesterday when he made beyond a doubt the most sensational catch of the season. He ran on a dead run to center-right and with his gloved hand knocked the flying sphere up in the air. He stopped short, caught the ball as it dropped and with a quick throw fielded to first, cutting off Land and completing a double.

The Indians in the 7th inning
made three more and cinched the game. Poets singled, Lloyd singled,
Land singled and Frakes popped out
to Barbour. McClain, Perry and Gilligan all singled on bunted balls
which the Hoosiers could not field
fast enough and scored three runs.
McClain was forced out at second
and Taylor went out to Donovan and
the side was retired.

In the eighth inning the Hoosiers
scored one more run on a clean three bagger and infield hit. Donovan, with
one out, drove the ball to center and gained third sack. He was followed by Barbour, Poets fielding to first and
letting in the score. The next man
sawed and the misery ended.

In the last of the ninth the Hoosiers
failed to do anything even
though they did have a double and
single, and the Indians left with two
out of three scalps for this series,
making six games out of the nine
played with the Kolbites.

DR. JOE SHEMWELL SAID TO HAVE DISAPPEARED.

Alleged to Have Written a Letter to His Wife That He was Going Away.

We have it from a reliable source that Dr. Joe Shemwell, the well-known physician who lives just across the Trigg county line in Stewart county, Tenn., between Salineburg and Bumpus' Mill, has recently left home and his whereabouts is unknown to his family and friends, says the Cadiz, Ky., Record.

He took his departure, so our information is, about two weeks ago, and told his wife that he was going to Dawson to spend a few days for his health. A day or two after he left, she received a letter from him mailed on the train informing her that he was going to leave the country and might leave the United States and that he had made suitable arrangements for the temporal necessities of herself and little four-year-old child, and that if she would go to Dover she would find things properly arranged. Upon investigation it was found that he had placed $5,000 in the Dover bank to her credit, and had left his business in the hands of James Hancock, his wife's father, with instructions to wind it up and give the proceeds to his wife and child, besides all the personal property was left them, three lots in some western town were left to the child.

He is reputed to be worth something like $25,000 or $30,000, all of which it is supposed he took with him except the amount he left his wife and child. He also enjoyed a splendid practice and had been very successful along that line.

He had recently disposed of all of his investments which were principally in Oklahoma and Arizona, except the three lots in the new town which he left to his little child.

THE GUTTERS

Cause the Board of Health Much Annoyance.

Dr. J. W. Pendley, president of the board of health, stated this morning that residents generally were cleaning up their premises and the greatest trouble experienced by the sanitary officers and board was in the gutter nuisance.

There are a number of gutters which have little or no drainage, the water standing in them constantly. The board has been working to remedy this matter and has the assurance of the board of public works and legislative board members that the gutters will be repaired as soon as possible.

Another Large Crowd.

The Casino theatre at Wallace park continues to draw and another large crowd was out last night to see "The Bosom Friend of Bowser." The bill was changed last night and the show was pleasing in every respect. Marshall and Golde in up-to-date dancing and sketches are retained as specialty artists and continue to make hits. The entire cast is fine.

BIG PICNIC

150 OF THE POOR CHILDREN OF PADUCAH TO HAVE OUT-ING.

The Sun, and Its Readers to Aid in the Noble Working of Making Happy the Little Folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Chiles of the Rescue Mission have conceived the idea of giving some of the poor children of the city a picnic, and appreciating the magnitude of the work have solicited the assistance of The Sun and its friends. The Sun readily assented to be a party to the undertaking and believes most of its readers will.

There are about 150 little fellows that it is the intention to take out to some nice, cool, shady spot and give them an old-fashioned picnic, one like mother used to make for you when you were a youngster.

The Sun wants all of its readers to donate something to this effort to dispense a little pleasure where it is badly needed, and if the heads of each family reading the paper will promise to fix us up a lunch basket it will be all we could ask. Of course it will take some cash to pay for wagons to transport the little fellows to the grounds and buy ice and other necessities of the sort but this we shall raise by subscription. We already have some cash subscriptions—subscriptions which we publish below. Fill in the coupon subjoined and send it in as your mite. We don't care what you send, simply donate something, if only a dime.

Following are the donations:

100 MILES AN HOUR.

A number of papers are calling attention to the danger of the epidemic of breaking railroad records. One hundred and twenty-seven miles an hour recently made by one railroad is faster than most folks care to travel.

The Globe Democrat says:

If this time-annihilating transit can be had without increased risk the experiment will justify itself. It is clear that the railway companies expect their swift trains to pay for the outlay. The money consideration is dominant with them, as it is in all sorts of business ventures. If wrecks can be averted, the chances are that the trains will be abundantly patronized at the increased rates which will be charged. But the increased speed demands increased vigilance on the part of train crews and railway track inspectors. A wreck at a 100-mile-an-hour gait would necessarily be far more disastrous than at a speed of 40 or 50 miles. Such a catastrophe would have a tendency to cut down the travel by these trains, for the time, at least. All these things, of course, have been taken into the calculation by the rival railway companies. In the meantime the term "flyer" as applied to these record-breaking trains becomes something more than a figure of speech."

THE RETURN OF SHERLOCK HOLMES.

No character in fiction has created more interest or entertained more people than "Sherlock Holmes," and many were the regrets when Conan Doyle brought him to a seemingly untimely end. He makes his reappearance in the first of a series of 12 short stories which will be published in The Sun serially beginning Saturday and the lovers of good fiction should not miss any of them. They are just as thrilling and exciting as any of "The Sherlock Holmes" series and show that Conan Doyle has lost none of his genius, which made him famous. The Sun congratulates itself on securing these stories, and congratulates its readers, too. We have endeavored all the time to keep up the high standard set by our first continued stories and are well satisfied that in our latest publication we shall again do so. The story beginning tomorrow is "The Adventure of the Empty House" in which "Sherlock Holmes" dramatically makes his reappearance.

The last four witnesses were strongly favorable to the epilepsy theory.

nia with some of the young men about Fulton. Its effects are seriously disturbing the community. They don't stop at a drink. They combine and buy a keg of the stuff and carouse around it until it's all drunk up. By that time some of them are drunk, and all of them are "under the influence," says the Fulton Commercial, which is a hot local option paper in a local option town. If the above is the true state of affairs, and it is likely it is, Fulton would probably be better off with saloons where these young men could get a drink when they wanted it without having to buy a whole keg. One thing is evident from the Commercial's admission, and that is that local option does not prevent anyone from getting intoxicants.

Mayor Dunne, of Chicago, is ready to repudiate Scotch Expert Dalrymple and his opinions. The latter has caused consternation in the administration camp, and the radicals who carried the last election are willing to admit that bringing Dalrymple to this country was a mistake. They are now thinking of getting Tom Johnson there from Cleveland, O., to counteract the weight of the opinions of the Scotchman and dispel the gloom that hovers over the camp of the radicals in such large chunks.

He said he had heard of more evidence, and if it developed as he had been told it would, it was important, and may throw a different light on the case. He could not get the evidence this afternoon, however.

Dr. Hessig's attorney suggested that the case could be taken up by the grand jury, if Detective Moore was not satisfied, and it was then decided to let the jury return a verdict on the evidence submitted.

The Jury's Statement.

The Jury, after the inquest and verdict, the latter being somewhat unsatisfactory to Dr. Hessig and his attorneys, called at the Sun office and agreed to this statement:

That it was the opinion of the jury that Mrs. Hessig died from epilepsy, but inasmuch as there was no expert testimony to this effect, they could not officially so conclude. They exonerated Dr. H. T. Hessig completely, however, from any connection with her death.

THE REVIVALS.

A large congregation was present last evening at the Broadway Methodist church revival showing a decided increase in the number of men over any previous service. Rev. A. C. Bell, of Columbus, Ky., preached the sermon. His subject was "Judgment" and it was a very forcible presentation of the subject, and held the attention of his hearers throughout. The interest is gaining and the leaders feel much encouraged over it. Last evening at 6:30 "The Quartette" sang on the Custom House corner and greatly impressed all who heard them. These street services will be repeated.

The service this morning was conducted by Rev. John C. Wilson and was a most interesting one.

Mrs. Oliva Nelson was the first witness this afternoon. She stated that while she had never treated Mrs. Hessig for epilepsy, Mrs. Hessig seemed to be a woman likely to be subject to epilepsy. Dr. Nelson was her physician, and treated her, but not for epilepsy. She attended her for female trouble, and a short time before death noticed her on her bruises apparently from a "fit."

Mrs. Lehnhard, a nurse who attended the late Fred Hessig before he died and also nursed Mrs. Hessig, Dr. Hessig's mother, testified that Dr. Hessig's wife had "fits" for three years. She said she herself had seen her have several, the most violent being about five weeks ago, when she bit the mouth and fell out of bed in her paroxysms.

Lost the Case.

The case of William Dudley, a former I. C. employee, against the road for $10,000 damages for injuries received by being struck by the spout of a water tank, was decided in favor of the defendant at Princeton yesterday on peremptory instructions.

The court holding that the railroad was not responsible for the accident, Hendrick and Miller, of the city, will take an appeal.

Oil Cases at Benton.

Eight indictments against the Standard Oil company will come up for trial in the Benton circuit court today, but it is probable that all but one of them will be dismissed, as the court of appeals has just held that the company can be indicted only once in each county every year for failure to have a license. The decision was rendered three days ago.

A BIG INCREASE IN TOBACCO HERE

Government Report Shows 25

Plants Are Said to Be Good, On the Whole—The Local Tobacco Report.

NEWS FROM OTHER PLACES.

Washington, June 16.—From the report on the condition of the tobacco crop issued by the department of agriculture information is gathered from 1,500 special correspondents of an increase of the tobacco acreage in the burley district composed of counties in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, and West Virginia, which is estimated at 25 per cent.

Regarding the burley district in Kentucky the report says that the increase is much larger than 25 per cent, and a reason given is that since the price of thoroughbred horses has decreased many breeders have plowed up grass lands and planted them to tobacco.

The department adds: "Reports as to conditions of plants, the character of the season, transplanting, etc., vary greatly, but on the whole it may be said that the plants are good and plentiful, the season early in some localities, a month earlier than usual, and transplanting well advanced."

Conditions in the regie or dark tobacco district of Kentucky and Tennessee are reported generally favorable.

Douthit Bros & Ezell, tobacco dealers, have made a settlement with the insurance companies pertaining to their loss in the recent fire in the tobacco district and received $25,000 for their loss. There is one policy of $1,500 that has not been settled on account of an adjuster not arriving here.—Mayfield Messenger.

Killed by Paris Green.

Cadiz, Ky., June 16.—A little son of Berry Hester, who lives on the old Hayes place near Roaring Spring, died under very peculiar circumstances. He was at work putting parsnips on tobacco plants that had been set out recently to prevent cut worms from destroying them, and while at work ate some green apples. A short while after, he complained of being sick and wanted to go to the house. The father thought there was something wrong with the boy, and insisted that he keep at work. The boy shortly after went to the house and went to bed. The father followed shortly after and finding the boy suffering much pain, had a physician sent for, but the boy continued to grow worse and died that night. The boy was evidently poisoned by getting the poison into his stomach by his fingers while eating the apples.

SIR HENRY MORGAN, BUCCANEER

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY,
Author of "The Southerners," "For Love of Country," "The Grip of Honor," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY G. W. BILLINGHAM COMPANY

So long as it was light Morgan intently watched the sea. There was a sense of companionship in it which helped to alleviate his unutterable loneliness. And he was a man to whom loneliness in itself was a punishment. There were too many things in the past that had a habit of making their presence felt when he was alone for him ever to desire to be solitary. Presently the sun disappeared with the startling suddenness of tropic latitudes, and without twilight darkness fell over the sea and over his haggard face like a veil. The moon had not yet risen, and he could see nothing. There were a few faint clouds on the horizon, he had noticed, which might presage a storm. It was very dark and very still, as calm and peaceful a tropic night as ever shrouded the Caribbean. Farther and farther away from him he could hear the rustle of the receding waves as the tide went down. Over his head twinkled the stars out of the deep darkness.

Then the moon sprang up as suddenly as the sun had fallen. Her silver radiance flooded the firmament. Light heavenly light, once more! Far away from him the white line of the water was breaking on the silver sand.

Now the tide turned and came creeping in. It had gone out slowly. It had lingered as if reluctant to leave him, but to his distraught vision it returned with the swiftness of a thousand white horses tossing their wind blown manes. The wind died down; the clouds were dissipated. The night was so very calm it mocked the storm raging in his soul. And still the silvered water came flooding in. Gently, tenderly, caressingly, the little waves lapped the sands. At last they lifted the ghastly head of young Teach and laid it at his feet.

He cursed the rising water and bade it stay, and heedlessly it came on. It was a tropic sea, and the waters were as warm as those of any sun-kissed ocean, but they broke upon his knees with the coldness of eternal ice. They raised the heavier body of his faithful slave against him. He strove to drive it away with his foot as he had striven to thrust aside the ghastly head, and without avail. The two friends receded as the waves roiled back, but they came on again and again and again. They had been faithful to him in life; they remained with him in death.

Now the water broke about his waist; now it rose to his breast. He was exhausted, worn out. He hung silent, staring. His mind was busy. His thoughts went back to that rugged Welsh land where he had been born. He saw himself a little boy playing in the fields that surrounded the farmhouse of his father and mother.

He took again that long trip across the ocean. He lived again in the hot hell of the Caribbean. Old forms of forgotten buccaneers clustered about him.

The water was higher now. It was at his neck. There were Porto Bello, Puerto Principe, and Maracaibo, and Chagres, and Panama—ah, Panama! All the flocks of hell had been there, and he had been their chief! They came back now to mock him.

There was pale faced, tender eyed Maria Zeroga, who had died of the plague, and the baby, the boy, Jamaica, too, swept into his vision. There was his wife shrinking away from him in the very articles of death. There was young Ebenezer Hornigold, dancing right merrily upon the gallows, together with others of the buccaneers he had banished.

The grim figure of the one eyed boatswain rose before him and leered upon him and swept the other apparitions away. This was La Guayra yesterday. He had been betrayed. Whose men were those? The men hanging on the walls? And Hornigold had done it—old Ben Hornigold—what he thought so faithful.

He screamed aloud again with hate; he called down curses upon the head of the growing, one eyed apparition. And the water broke into his mouth and stopped him. It called him to his senses for a moment. His present peril overcame the hideous recollection of the past. That water was rising still. Great God! At last he prayed. Lips that had only cursed shaped them into futile petitions. There was a God after all.

The end was upon him, yet with the old instinct of life he lifted himself upon his toes. He raised his arms as far as the chains gave him play and caught the chains themselves and strove to pull, to lift, at last only to hold himself up, a rigid, awful figure. He gained an inch or two, but his fetters held him down. As the water supported him he found little difficulty in maintaining the position for a space. But he could go no higher—if the water rose an inch more that would be the end. He could breathe only between the breaking waves now.

The body of the black was swung against him again and again, the head of young Teach kissed him upon the cheek, and still the water seemed to rise and rise and rise. He was a dead man like the other two—indeed, he praved to die—and yet in fear he clung to the chains and held on. Each moment he fancied would be his last, but he could not let go.

man figure, an old man, bent, haggard, like himself, with watching, but with a fierce mad joy in his face. Where had he come from? Who was he? What did he want? The figure glared upon the unhappy man with one fiery eye, and then he lifted before the captive's distorted vision something. What was it—a cup of water? Water, water brimming over the cup! It was just out of reach of his lips—so cool, so sweet, so inviting! He strained at his chains, bent his head, thrust his lips out. He could almost touch it—not quite! He struggled and struggled and strove to break his fetters, but without avail. Those fetters could not be broken by the hand of man. He could not drink, God!—then he lifted his blinded eyes and searched the face of the other.

"Hornigold!" he whispered hoarsely with his parched and stiffened lips. "Is it thou?"

"Aye, I wanted to let you know there was water here. You must be thirsty. You'd like a drink? So would I. There is not enough for both of us. Who will get it? I. Look!"

"Not all—not all!" screamed the old captain faintly as the other drained the cup. "A little! A drop for me!"

"Not one drop," answered Hornigold; "not one drop! If you were in hell and I held a river in my hand you would not get a drop! It's gone."

He threw the cup from him.

"I brought you to this—I! Do you recall it? You owe this to me. You had your revenge; this is mine. But it's not over yet. I'm watching you. I shall not come out here again, but I'm watching you, remember that! I can see you!"

"Take that knife you bear—kill me!"

"I don't want you to die—not yet. I want you to live—live a long time, and remember!"

"Hornigold, I'll make amends! I'll be your slave!"

"Aye, crawl and cringe now, you dog! I swore that you should do it! I was useless to beg for mercy. I know not that word; neither did you. Remember, I watch!"

He threw his glance upward, stopped suddenly, a fierce light in that old eye of his.

"Look up," he cried, "and you will see! Take heart, man. I guess you won't have to wait for the tide, and the sun won't bother you long. Remember, I am watching you!"

He turned and walked away, concealing himself in the copse once more, where he could see and not be seen. The realization that he was watched by one whom he could not see, one who gloated over his miseries and sufferings and agonies, added the last touch to the torture of the buccaneer. He had no longer strength or manhood. He no longer cried out after that one last appeal to the merciless sailor. He did not even look up in obedience to the old man's injunction. What was there above him, beneath him, around him, that could add to his fear? He prayed for death. They were the first and last prayers that had fallen from his lips for fifty years, those that day. Yet when death did come at last he shrank from it with an increasing terror and horror that made all that he had passed through seem like a trifling.

When old Hornigold had looked up he had seen spear in the vaulted heaven. It was slowly soaring around and around in vast circles and with each circle coming nearer and nearer to the ground. A pair of keen and powerful eyes were aloft there piercing the distance, looking, searching in every direction until at last their glance fell upon the figure upon the rock. The circling stopped. There was a swift rush through the air. A black-feathered bird passed between the buccaneer and the sun, and a mighty vulture, hideous bird of the tropics, alighted on the sands near by him.

So this was the judgment of God upon this man! For a second his tortured heart stopped its beating. He stared at the unclean thing, and then he shrank back against the rock and screamed with frantic terror. The bird was stubborn and would not yield to treatment, until I tried Snow Liniment, which did the work in short order. My sister, Mrs. Sophia J. Carson, Allensville, Mifflin, Pa., has a sore and mistrusts that it is a cancer. Please send her a $5.00 bottle, Alvey & List, and G. C. C. Kolb, Paducah, Ky.

It is a subject of marked comment among all new comers to Paducah that the river is used so little for pleasure craft, but there is a good deal of interest being taken in auto-boats this summer and the prospects are that there will be several with the probabilities of a boat club before the season is over.

Westmoreland, Kans., May 5, 1902. Ballard's Snow Liniment Co.: Your Snow Liniment cured an old sore on the side of my chin that was supposed to be a cancer. The sore was stubborn and would not yield to treatment, until I tried Snow Liniment, which did the work in short order. My sister, Mrs. Sophia J. Carson, Allensville, Mifflin, Pa., has a sore and mistrusts that it is a cancer. Please send her a $5.00 bottle, Alvey & List, and G. C. C. Kolb, Paducah, Ky.

So this was the judgment of God upon this man!

For a second his tortured heart stopped its beating. He stared at the unclean thing, and then he shrank back against the rock and screamed with frantic terror. The bird was stubborn and would not yield to treatment, until I tried Snow Liniment, which did the work in short order. My sister, Mrs. Sophia J. Carson, Allensville, Mifflin, Pa., has a sore and mistrusts that it is a cancer. Please send her a $5.00 bottle, Alvey & List, and G. C. C. Kolb, Paducah, Ky.

For this condition Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a specific; it is a food for the nerves. It builds up the nervous system, and restores lost energy.

Try it to-day and see if your sleep is not sound and refreshing, and the morrow brighter and more hopeful.

"Hornigold!"

From the copse there came no sound, no answer. He sank forward in his chains, his head upon his breast, convulsive shudders alone proclaiming faltering life. Hell had no terror like to this which he, living, suffered.

There was a weight upon his shoulder now. Fierce talons sank deep into his quivering flesh. In front of his face, before a pair of lidless eyes that glowed like fire, a hellish, cruel beak struck at him. A faint, low, ghastly tremble through the still air.

Mr. Louis Schaeffer, of the Bergdorf works, 12th and Jones streets, was painfully cut yesterday afternoon on the arm by his knife slipping while he was trying to pull a cork from a bottle. Dr. Pendley dressed the injury.

Messrs. Turner and Chappell, of the Hoerber brewery, have painful cuts, the former being cut on the elbow by a bursting bottle and the other having a finger caught in a machine.

GEN. TOM OWEN

ELECTED COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF SONS OF VETERANS
ANS.

The Big Parade Took Place in Louisville This Morning—A Grand Time Being Had.

Louisville, Ky., June 16.—The election of officers yesterday afternoon by the United Sons of Confederate Veterans resulted as follows:

Thomas M. Owen, of Montgomery, Ala., commander-in-chief.

G. Leslie Spence, of Richmond, Va., commander of Department of Virginia.

R. E. Lee Bynum, of Jackson, Tenn., commander of the Department of Tennessee.

I. J. Stockett of Tyler, Texas, commander of the Trans-Mississippi Department.

STANDARD TIME

Applies in All Insurance Policies, Says Appellee Court.

Frankfort, Ky., June 16.—The court of appeals, by Judge O'Rear, reversed the case of the Rochester German Insurance company vs Pease-Gauley company and affirmed the National Fire Insurance company vs same and Pacific Fire Insurance company vs Louisville Lead company, from the Jefferson common pleas court. The actions involved the validity of policies on the buildings, which expired at noon on the day on which the fire occurred. The question was as to whether standard or sun time applies. This court holds standard time, and enforces the policies, which expired at the time of the fire.

The clause in the policies read: "Insure from first day of April, 1901, at noon, to first day of April, 1902, at noon."

The fire originated in the factory building at 11:45 standard time, April 1, 1902. The alarm was turned in at 11:59 a. m., standard time, according to records of the department. The difference between central standard time based upon the mean time of the nineteenth meridian west of Greenwich, and mean solar time at Louisville, is seventeen and one-half minutes, so that at 11:45 a. m., standard time, it would be recorded 12:02 1-2 sun time at Louisville. The court discusses exhaustively the questions and lays down the rule that standard time prevails.
